[President.]

removed. In Bombay the prices are now about 8 to 10 times the local price, and very influential organisations and leaders of the textile industry in Bombay have come here and waited in deputation on me and have been trying their utmost to remove tapioca from Travancore. Pressure has been brought to bear upon this Government both by those great industrial agencies and through certain Governments for the purpose of changing the policy of this Government. This Government have definitely stated and adhered to that policy that not even an ounce of tapioca will go out of the State until the food situation is rendered definitely easier.

As regards supplementary questions, I think I ought to make the rule clear for the benefit of the new members. The rule is that an honourable member who has put in a question might ask a supplementary question for the purpose of clearing up or elucidating the facts arising out of the question in the printed list. But the moment the supplementary question or questions have been put and the honourable member has resumed his seat, the honourable member cannot put any other series of questions.
